

The United Mexican States

(Estados Unidos Mexicanos)

Committee on the Pacific Continent

By Avery Nash

Mexico has not maintained many overseas territories, however we think that this could be a good idea. And we could have an open border and share the territory around with other countries to show good diplomacy and maintain peace. We feel that rather than it be controlled by one country it should be shared around for open use. We plan to call this new island “Isla del Pacífico Central”, subject to approval by the Committee.

I printed this already let the chair and backrooms know if you make changes after this bye
